An effort had been made to induce the prosecuting attorney to suspend sentence, but Mr. Dickinson rightly supposed the case too flagrant a one for leniency. The boy's mother was present in Court and seemed to be greatly affected by the sentence.

THE WOOL MEN.
Resolutions Against a Reduction of Tariff.

SOME STRONG OBJECTIONS.

Reorganization of the Utah Wool Growers' Association—Its Importance to Sheep Men—Notes.

The adjourned meeting of the wool-growers commenced at 10 o'clock yesterday, in the Legislative Chamber.

The meeting was called to order by Mr. Joseph Barker, who, on motion of Mr. Silva, was elected chairman, and on motion of Mr. Cohn, Mr. Reed Smoot was elected secretary.

It was moved by Mr. Silva and seconded by Mr. Dunn, that the chair appoint a committee of five to draft resolutions to present to Congress protesting against any reduction of the tariff on wool, and the following gentlemen were named: V. M. C. Silva, Ogden; Henry Cohn, Salt Lake; F. J. Fabian, Wyoming; James Dunn, Provo; J. H. Erickson, Mount Pleasant.

MR. FABIAN said he had written to several parties of Wyoming in reference to the matter under consideration, but he had not heard from any of them.

MR. SILVA said the wool men were here to ratify the protests from the large manufacturers, importers and wool growers of the east, as well as entering a solemn protest against any reduction of the tariff on wool, as such a reduction meant ruin to the industry in the west. We are here to represent the whole of the sheep industry of this western country, and we are to show in our resolutions to that effect.

Adjourned until 2 p.m.

On reassembling at 2 p.m. the committee on resolutions appointed at the morning session, made their report, which was as follows:

To the Honorable the Senate and House of Representatives in Congress Assembled:

Your memorialists, the wool growers of Colorado, Wyoming, Utah and Idaho, in convention assembled, this 3d day of May, 1886, in Salt Lake City, and representing a combined capital of $25,000,000, beg leave to submit the following preamble and resolutions, and ask a careful deliberation of our claims, and your memorialists will ever say:

Whereas, The wool growers of Colorado, Wyoming, Utah and Idaho, in convention assembled, in the city of Salt Lake, this 3d day of May, 1886, representing 6,000,000 sheep, and a combined capital of $25,000,000, invested, and an annual yield of 30,000,000 pounds of wool, and

Resolved, That we pledge ourselves to work for and aid in the restoration of the tariff of 1867, on wool and woolsens, and request all sheep raisers and those interested in the wool-growing industry to co-operate with us.

Resolved, That we, as wool growers and citizens, pledge ourselves to stand by all committees and associations in giving full and complete protection to all American industries in need of the same, and cordially invite their co-operation in this matter.

Resolved, That we call upon our Senators and Representatives in Congress to do all in their power to restore the said tariff of 1867 on wool and woolsens.

He thought that at least thirty copies of these should be neatly printed, signed by the chairman and secretary of the meeting, and sent to the committee on ways and means, to each Senator and Representative of the States and Territories, and to such other people as it might be thought advisable to send.

There was some little discussion as to the proper means of circulating the resolutions, and on motion Mr. V. M. C. Silva was appointed a committee of one to distribute them as he thought best. The meeting then adjourned sine die.

After the above meeting had adjourned, the gentlemen present, a great portion of whom were members of the Utah Wool Growers' Association, held a session. There was a general feeling that the organization which was effected two years ago be reconstituted, or at least have a little new life forced into it. Mr. Barker, Vice-President of the association, presided, and Mr. Reed Smoot acted as temporary secretary.

MR. SILVA said that when the Association was organized two years ago, it gave evidence of being of some power, but he was sorry to see that little attention had been paid to it by a great many who should have taken a lively interest in the proceedings. It was to the welfare of every sheep man that they should be associated together—they would thereby be able to help one another and the country generally.

MR. WHITALL, of Grantsville, spoke of the benefits to be derived, and said that if all sheepmen could be induced to join, it would make a most formidable organization. It would also place the sheepmen in a position to command the attention of Congress, whenever any legislation inimical to the interests of the woolgrowers might be pending.

MR. SMOOT thought it would be wise to have a nominal yearly dues, and then in case any more funds were necessary, let each member be assessed at the rate of 1 cent per head on the sheep owned. A reorganization was then acted by the election of the following officers:

PRESIDENT—Joseph Barker.
VICE-PRESIDENT—V. M. C. Silva.
TREASURER—Frank Jennings.
There was some more informal discussion in reference to the best method of raising funds, etc., and it was finally decided, on motion of Mr. James Dunn, that the chair appoint a committee of three to look into all matters of interest to sheep owners in general, and the members of the association in particular, and report at the next meeting. The chair appointed Messrs. James Dunn, W. L. Pickard and N. K. Parsons.

A large number of names were added to the membership roll, and the meeting then adjourned, subject to the call of the President.

ALBERT MORRISON—SHERIDAN—The Theatre was filled last evening with one of the audiences which Louis Morrison said he pretty well familiar with in Salt Lake by this time—one that included the brilliance, fashion and intelligence of the city. The galleries, too, from whom little is expected on legitimate nights, turned out in much the same force as if their favorite were about to be seen again in The Shadows or the Valley Slave. The company which surrounds Miss Alsberg is one which for even and compact excellence is very seldom found on the road with any star. Sheridan, so lately touring by himself, and supported by his charming wife, Morrison, who for the past several seasons has reaped rich harvests on the Coast, in a certain line of plays, and Messrs. Woodside and Thompson, whose names have ever been seen in the foremost rank with the foremost combinations, to say nothing of the fact of Miss Davenport's presence in the "support," form a coterie of such universal strength that we involuntarily seek for some reason out of the ordinary for their being together. That reason it is not difficult to discover. Mr. Morrison is too experienced an actor not to know that Miss Alsberg is as yet an amateur, and not to know that such a part as Isabella is at present beyond her capabilities. He surrounded her, therefore, with a company to complete which no money was spared (and report has it that his world is literally blessed with this world's commodities to be indifferent to the proportions of the weekly salary list), so that should she fail to come up to expectation, the public could still have no cause to complain from the excellence of the remainder of the company. This one mistake was made with reference to Miss Alsberg—and it is somewhat of an injustice to her that it should have occurred—the public were not apprised that she was a beginner in her profession. Seeing her name emblazoned along with those of Morrison and Sheridan, and knowing nothing of the fact that she only claimed to be an amateur—public expectation was raised too high, and the lady was unable last evening to satisfy it. She is a very pretty girl with a winning sweetness, but with none of the force and power that Isabella should have rocked the house with in her noble scenes last evening. Experience, and such experience as she will gain surrounded by her present company, may do much for her, and in all kindness we address these remarks, but we confess to a feeling of trepidation for her when we learn that she will seek to penetrate into the shoals, reefs and quicksands of the theatres of the east.

Morrison was as ever the careful, painstaking, artistic actor; his ungainly parts were invested with all that genius could bestow upon it, and watching him portray the villain last evening the desire found general expression that he might be seen as Iago Wednesday if it were in any way possible. Sheridan had a long, talky part, which he made the most of, except the fact that he was not free from stumbling; it gave him no opportunity, however, to show the genius that makes him the foremost Louis XI of the age, and there was likewise no chance for the prodigious reserve force he carries, and which enables him to sweep all before him in such a scene as the one in Lear. Mr. Woodside was most excellent and was called before the curtain. Mr. Thompson did Lucio with a graceful abandon, though not at all times distinct. Mr. Staley shows great improvement and Mr. L. Paul made considerable merit in the Clown. Miss Roy played with sweetness two parts—of them Mariana, which loses much by being cut down from the original. Costumes and stage business were perfection, and there were no hitches to the numberless changes, except the stupid management of the flies and borders, a fault altogether too common of late.

To-night we are to have the beautiful ancient Briton tale—Cymbeline—Miss Louise Davenport appearing as the Queen, Miss Alsberg as Imogene, Mr. Morrison as Iachimo, Mr. Sheridan as Leonatus, Mr. Woodside as Pisanio, and Mr. Thompson as Belarius. The costumes are said to be of unusual elegance and Miss Davenport's presence in the cast—and many were the disappointments at her absence last evening—forms an additional feature to the programme.

MR. MORRISON announced from the stage in one of his characteristically neat speeches that they had cancelled their Laramie date and would remain over Wednesday night, presenting some piece not yet decided on—it is to be hoped that Othello can be arranged; Sheridan's Moor is said to be one of his greatest efforts, and Morrison played Iago to Salvini Miss Davenport is "up" in Desdemona, and all that would be required would be an Emilia, providing the books could be procured.

In the Police Court.

J. Golding, charged with being drunk and engaging in a fight with Alex. Gulespie, early on Sunday morning in a Main Street restaurant, was fined $7.50. Gulespie also fell by the wayside, but to the tune of $15.

CAREWELL-BATEMAN.—On May 2nd, at the residence of W. J. Bateman, Charles A. Carewell, of Ogden, and Miss Lottie Bateman, of Salt Lake City,

DECEYED AND BEATEN.
A Badly-Mixed Affair That Looks Tough all Around.

Complaints were filed in the Justice's Court yesterday morning against a Mrs. Lizzie Thurgood, wife of George Thurgood the butcher, by a young girl named Lizzie Boyd. From these it is learned that, on Thursday last, the Boyd girl, who is employed in Chadd's store on First South Street, was invited to call upon Mrs. Thurgood, and when she arrived there she was set upon by her hostess, who accused her of being Thurgood's second wife. This was, of course, denied, but Mrs. Thurgood was not satisfied, and locked the girl up in a room, where she was kept for about nine hours, being badly abused and beaten by the woman. Through the intervention of Mr. Dickinson and Mr. Van Horn, however, who had been sent for, the girl was released and told to go home. Mrs. Thurgood went to Chadd's store and obtained a lot of letters and other things that belonged to the girl. On Saturday, the Boyd girl was arrested as a witness, and placed under bonds, in an alleged case of bigamy against Mr. Thurgood. Matters now began to assume a rather serious aspect, and it is claimed that friends of Mrs. Thurgood—among whom was a drunken loafer by the name of Austin O'Toole—visited the girl early yesterday morning, evidently with the intention of getting the girl out of the way so that she would not be able to make a complaint against Mrs. Thurgood, which she has threatened to do. Between 2 and 3 o'clock on Monday morning the girl was seen in company with Lawyer Lewis and O'Toole, and was then in a beastly state of intoxication, and efforts were being made to entice her away. It is also claimed the girl was promised that if she would not prosecute Mrs. Thurgood the entire matter would be dropped.

There is evidently considerable more rottenness connected with the case, which will probably be developed when the matter gets into the courts, of which there are fair prospects. A warrant was issued for Mrs. Thurgood, but up to a late hour last evening she had not been found, and it was surmised that the Underground cut rates had been taken advantage of.

The Mill Creek's Monthly Meeting.

The Mill Creek Rifle Club held their regular monthly match in this city yesterday, in order to give the members of the club who live in Salt Lake a chance to participate in the shoot. Following is the score:

Joe Hamilton 29
J. Hill 26
A. C. Boyle 26
W. Hamilton 24
J. Nelson 43
John Hamilton 43

The tie between Neilson and Boam was decided on a single shot—Boam scoring a bullseye, and Neilson coming in second, taking the medal.

Utah Central Meeting.

In accordance with the printed call the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Utah Central Railroad Company took place at the Deseret National Bank yesterday at 2 p.m. There was little business of importance transacted, the only item being the election of the board of directors for the ensuing year. The vacancies were filled by the election of the same gentlemen as the directors themselves recently appointed, and the board now stands:

Chas. Francis Adams, John Sharp, F. L. Ames, Sidney Dillon, Frank G. Brown, Henry McFarland, Frank Little, Horace S. Eldredge and P. E. Shelby. Thirty-four thousand and seventy-four shares out of the 42,200 of the company were represented at the meeting.

A Beautiful Specimen.

H. D. Rippetto recently took a sample of ore from the Horn Silver (The Bannock) weighing about eight pounds and sent it to his wife in this city, by Sheriff Groesbeck. The specimen was being admired in David James & Co.'s store yesterday, and from the long looks cast upon it by some of the prominent stockholders, we should not be surprised if a long time elapsed before Mrs. Rippetto received it. The piece itself is valued at $2,000, and has a vein of horn silver running through it, which could almost be whittled like lead. It assays 14,000 ounces to the ton.

Court Business.

In addition to the items noted elsewhere, the following business was yesterday transacted before Judge Kane:

Morgan Mining Company vs. J. J. Daly, five cases. Amendments to complaint in intervention filed by leave of court.

T. C. Griffith vs. E. A. Ireland, two cases. Undertaking exonerated in reply.

T. B. Jones et al. vs. S. M. Lovendahl. Defendant allowed ten days additional time to plead.

Theodore Burmaster Acquitted of the Charge of Extortion.

The trial of Theodore Burmaster, whose indictment on the charge of extortion created considerable surprise a short time ago, occurred in Court yesterday, and resulted in a vindication of that gentleman, through the jury returning a verdict of not guilty. Owing to the delicacy of Mrs. Weisel, one of the principal witnesses, the trial was conducted with closed doors, but from several of the attorneys interested we learn the following circumstances of the case:

Some time ago a man named Weisel came here from Germany and entered the employ of the Salt Lake Brewing Co. Recently, his wife came out to join him, but she had not been here long before she was wanted upon by a girl named Mary Krauth, who produced a child, and gave Mrs. Weisel too many evidences that it was her's and that Weisel was the father of it. She demanded $300 husband money, and to this Mrs. Weisel acceded, taking the girl's receipt in German for the amount; translated before the jury yesterday, it was found that one of its clauses was to the effect that she agreed to hold her peace forever in consideration of the sum received. It was not long, however, before she again returned to the on-slaught with a demand for $800 more. Mr. Burmaster here enters into the case. Mrs. Weisel, becoming alarmed at the prospect of an endless demand upon her purse, consulted that gentleman, and in her interest he waited upon the Krauth girl to warn her against any further exactions. Here is where the testimony diverges. The girl claims that Mr. Burmaster made threats against her that induced her to return $100 of the money she had received, and on this charge the indictment was found. Mr. Burmaster himself, his clerk and others testify that he simply told the woman he could have her put in the penitentiary for six months for what she had done in the way of blackmail, and that she had preferred to return the $100 and that she returned that amount to Mrs. Weisel in Hoge & Burmaster's office. The witnesses for the prosecution were Mary Krauth, Barbara Krauth, Mrs. Weisel and F. Rehrman, but much of their testimony on cross-examination went for the benefit of the defendant. Mr. Burmaster was the only witness for himself. He was represented by Williams, Sheeks and Hoffman, and Mr. Dickinson prosecuted. The jury retired and were out about an hour and a half, first standing 8 to 4, then 11 to 1, and finally agreeing on a verdict of not guilty. The prosecutor was seen among the foremost to shake hands with Mr. Burmaster after the result was declared, so that that gentleman's assertion that the indictment was the result of prejudice against him on the part of some one among the Grand Jurors, would seem to have considerable foundation.

Objection to James Jack's Bond.

Mr. Dickinson yesterday arose in court for the purpose of interposing an objection to the supersedeas bond furnished in the case of the People vs. James Jack, printed in THE SUNDAY HERALD. His object was based on the fact that one of the sureties, Mrs. M. M. Barratt, had not properly qualified (her name being signed to, but not included in, the body of the justification), and that the terms of the bond were not satisfactory to the people, in that they did not contain a clause to the effect that if the appeal were dismissed, the sureties would guarantee Mr. Roberts' possession of the office. Mr. Sheeks and Mr. Dickinson argued the matter and Judge Kane took it under advisement.

WANTED, A FAIR TRIAL.
Arthur Brown Advances Some Forceful Reasons for a Continuance of the Brain Case.

The trial of Edward Brain, recently released from the Pen, where he had been imprisoned on the charge of unlawful cohabitation, came up in court yesterday under an indictment for resisting officers in the discharge of their duty.

Mr. Dickson wished to proceed at once, but Mr. Brown moved for a continuance until next term on the grounds contained in the following affidavit, which he read to the court:

Edward Brain, the above-named defendant, being first duly sworn, deposes and says: I have fully and fairly stated the facts of this case to Arthur Brown, my attorney therein, who resides in Salt Lake City. I have been advised by him, after such statement made as aforesaid, that I have a good and meritorious defense upon the merits thereof, which advice I verily believe to be true. I have been informed and believe to be true, that the present panel of petit jurors sitting in this case, have been summoned on an open venire by Marshal E. A. Ireland and his deputies. I have been informed of that fact appears by the records of this court. That the entire number of 200 jurors drawn in pursuance of the law of Congress was exhausted at the first term of this court this year, so that all the jurors at this term were summoned upon the said open venire. In this case, Marshal Ireland and his deputies are interested directly. I am charged by the indictment with resisting a deputy of Marshal Ireland, to wit: John W. Greenman, and that in the presence of said Marshal E. A. Ireland; the only witness endorsed on the back of the indictment delivered to me are the said John W. Greenman, deputy marshal, E. A. Ireland, United States Marshal, and Henry P. Collins, United States deputy marshal. I have been informed and have good reason to believe that the said E. A. Ireland, who has charge of summoning an open venire of jurors for this term is directly interested in securing, and has been active in attempting to procure my conviction, and all of said jurors were elected by him and his deputies. I believe I cannot secure an impartial trial before a jury thus selected by said E. A. Ireland and his deputies. I am informed and verily believe that at the next term of this court, another person will act as Marshal of this Territory, and a jury will not be selected by those interested, to convict me of this offense. I am informed and believe that a part of this jury was summoned by an impartial trial before a jury thus selected by said E. A. Ireland and his deputies. I am informed and verily believe that at the next term of this court, another person will act as Marshal of this Territory, and a jury will not be selected by those interested, to convict me of this offense. I am informed and believe that a part of this jury was summoned by an impartial trial before a jury thus selected by said E. A. Ireland and his deputies. I am informed and verily believe that at the next term of this court, another person will act as Marshal of this Territory, and a jury will not be selected by those interested, to convict me of this offense.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 1st day of May, A.D. 1886.

EDWARD B. BROWN, Notary Public.

Mr. Dickinson said he did not think the grounds were sufficient for a continuance. It could not be shown that either Greenman or Ireland was interested in the result of the verdict. The Judge also emphatically took this view and overruled the motion. Mr. Brown then interposed a challenge to the panel on the same grounds, and Mr. Critchlow made an extended argument for the defendant, quoting numerous authorities to sustain the position that where the officer making the selection of the panel was an interested party, the challenge must hold good. Mr. Dickinson will answer this morning.

How About This?

To the Editor of THE HERALD:

In a brief local in Sunday's HERALD, you say the turn-out of people on May Day was not observed, in consequence of the chilly weather. Probably your reporter may have been so occupied in "rushing" for other items, and either overlooked or did not happen to see the crowds of folks at the junction of the street cars, or the loads of folks that were taken every trip to Fuller's Hill. By inquiries of some of the employees of the street-car company, I calculated that over 1,200 passed over the road for the hill on Saturday, and many walked all the way because they had three blocks to walk, anyhow. The folks on the hill, when I went there in the afternoon, were like bees around a hive, and yesterday I found that there must have been in the neighborhood of 2,500 or 2,700 there during the day and evening. If my gentle voice would make a racket in the ears of the street-car company, I would make them understand that they are not only losing money, but offending their best patrons by not running the cars to the Hill. We must keep up with the times, you know.
